1. Overview

This document serves as a formal record of community contribution and service rendered by Abhinav (fka unknownking) to Asymmetry Finance. It is issued by the Head of Marketing & Communications to provide verified, first-hand attestation of the work completed, the character demonstrated, and the value delivered throughout the period of engagement.

Asymmetry Finance is a DeFi protocol operating at the intersection of liquid staking, stablecoin infrastructure, and Curve/Convex ecosystem tooling. The community layer — Discord, X (Twitter), and broader social channels — is critical to protocol trust, user onboarding, and brand reputation. Moderators are not incidental to this effort; they are its operational backbone.

2. Contributions & Conduct

2.1 Discord Moderation

Abhinav served as a dedicated moderator of the Asymmetry Finance Discord server for the full 18-month period from November 2024 to May 2026, carrying out the role without interruption. This covered a pivotal and demanding period in the protocol's development, encompassing product launches, governance activity, and market volatility — all of which generate elevated volumes of community enquiry, confusion, and noise.

- Maintained consistent availability and responsiveness across the server
- Enforced community guidelines with fairness and sound judgement

- Handled escalations calmly and without drama — a rare quality in crypto communities
- Coordinated with the core team as needed to surface issues and relay accurate information

2.2 Communication & Member Support

Across the full period of service, Abhinav demonstrated an exceptional standard of communication — clear, patient, and accurate. Community members interacting with Asymmetry Finance's Discord were consistently met with timely, helpful responses. This is not a given in DeFi environments, where moderators often lack either the technical knowledge or the interpersonal skill to support users effectively.

- Reliably the first point of contact for new and returning community members
- Proactively directed users to correct resources and documentation
- Communicated protocol updates and context clearly, reducing confusion during key events

2.3 Creative Input & Product Thinking

What distinguished Abhinav from a typical moderator was a genuine forward-thinking mindset. Beyond reactive support duties, Abhinav contributed thoughtful ideas that had tangible bearing on community design and product experience. This level of intellectual engagement — volunteered, unprompted, and consistently constructive — is exactly the kind of contributor any protocol should want in its community layer.

- Contributed meaningful suggestions on community structure, channel organisation, and engagement mechanics
- Proposed integration and UX ideas that demonstrated genuine understanding of the protocol and its user base
- Showed initiative in identifying gaps in information flow and working to address them

2.4 X (Twitter) Presence & Support

In addition to Discord, Abhinav was a dependable presence on X (formerly Twitter), supporting the protocol's social footprint in a way that was both authentic and effective. In a space where visibility and community amplification matter enormously, having a trusted community member actively engaged on-platform is genuinely valuable.

- Amplified and supported Asymmetry Finance's announcements, threads, and campaigns with genuine engagement
- Acted as a credible community voice on the platform, reflecting well on the protocol's reputation
- Maintained a constructive and professional tone even in adversarial or high-tension contexts

3. Overall Assessment

Abhinav was one of those rare community contributors who shows up reliably, thinks beyond the immediate task, and makes the environment better for everyone in it. The combination of consistent availability, strong communication instincts, and a genuinely collaborative nature made a real difference to how the Asymmetry Finance community functioned across an extended and consequential period.

This document is issued in full confidence, and I would not hesitate to provide a direct reference to any team or project that Abhinav may be engaging with in a future capacity.
